FIG. 16 is a schematic diagram of a pixel array 250. The array is composed of four columns of subpixels. The columns are labeled 254G, 254E, 254G, and 254E from left to right. Each column contains subpixels 252A, 252B, and 252C. The subpixels are arranged in a grid with labels 254H, 254F, 254E, and 254G indicating different regions or layers. A coordinate system with X and Y axes is shown at the bottom left.
